

Bear Hunters Return

W. B. Mersfelder, Russell Hardwick, Sam McMurray and Jake Noble returned Sunday night from a two weeks hunting trip on the upper Pecos north of Texas. Modesty does not permit them to tell just how many bear they killed, but they thoroughly enjoyed the trip. They had to abandon the car and pack over the divide into the hunting country, where they hunted pack over ten thousand feet high.

Charged With Bigamy

Harry L. Moulton, a Clovis, was arrested Monday charged with bigamy. It is alleged in complaint that he was married to Lucile Holcomb when he married Miss Fursinger of Clovis on the 4th. Moulton is in jail and from all indications he is fast in the clutches of the law. He is also said to have passed a $12.00 check drawn on an Oklahoma bank in which he had no funds and that he cashed worthless checks in Hereford before coming here. He has been employed in the downtown restaurants.

Street Grading

The City dads are at work in earnest in repairing the streets. Plows and a grader are grading the streets by throwing the dirt to the center and cutting a drainage ditch at the curbing. With concrete crossings and graded streets, Clovis is beginning to put on city airs.

Thanksgiving

Shop at Home

While it is a little early to broach the subject of holiday shopping, it is, nevertheless, the time when the mail order houses are flooding the country with their holiday "bargains." In this connection the News would advise our readers that the Clovis merchants have this year bought the largest stock of holiday goods ever brought to the city and will sell just as cheap, quality considered, as any of the mail order houses. If you have been addicted to the habit of patronizing out of the county concerns in the past, just "wear off" this year and try the home concerns. It is a good policy to do your shopping early, but do it at home. Watch the columns of the News for holiday specialties.

Another Drug Store Here

Clovis is to have another drug store. It will be located in the Woodward building adjoining the Morris Grocery on South Main Street. R. C. Hunton, an experienced druggist from Comanche, Oklahoma, arrived last week and is busy this week unpacking his stock, furniture and fixtures and a handsome soda fountain. The building is one of the largest and best in the city and will give him ample room to display his goods to an advantage. Its location is central.

Steers to Sell

Fire at Cotter Hotel

The fire siren at one thirty Wednesday morning when a high wind was blowing, sent a chill through the slumbering inhabitants of Clovis. Fire had gained a good start under the kitchen floor of the Cotter hotel, on West Otero Avenue, but its timely discovery by the cook, who slept in an adjoining room and who gave the alarm, probably saved the building. Just how the fire started under the floor is a mystery, but the supposition is that it was caused by the overheated range burning through the floor. The department arrived in due time and with difficulty in chopping through the floor, extinguished the blaze which had already destroyed some of the joist under the kitchen floor.

A fire in this district where there is located a row of frame buildings and with a high wind blowing from the south would doubtless have produced a dangerous conflagration.

Some Wind

Two years ago last spring on Easter Sunday when this section experienced a strong wind, a big cyclone occurred at Omaha. Wednesday when the wind on that occasion was almost duplicated, a cyclone occurred at Great Bend, Kansas, in which thirteen people were killed and over a hundred injured.

It is said to have been the strongest wind ever experienced in Clovis.

A Small Blaze

A small unoccupied dwelling on South Thornton Street, north of the shops, was destroyed by fire Sunday night. The city department made a run, but had insufficient hose to reach the place which is in the suburbs. The blaze was subsequently extinguished by the Santa Fe fire department.
